Attention New Mexico Students!

Announcement from the Rio Grande Chapter (RGC) of the American Society for Photogrammetry and Remote Sensing (ASPRS)

The ASPRS-RGC encourages students in New Mexico with an interest in Geographic Information Science and Technology (e.g., GIS, Remote Sensing, Photogrammetry, and GPS) to become members of ASPRS.

Student membership has many BENEFITS, including:
- monthly issue of the journal Photogrammetric Engineering & Remote Sensing (PE&RS);
- substantial discounts on all ASPRS publications;
- receipt of ASPRS newsletters;
- access to geospatial job openings and job fairs;
- discounts on registration fees for ASPRS meetings, conferences, workshops, technical tours, and social events;
- eligibility for over $30,000 in national and regional awards, scholarships, fellowships;
- discounted professional certification fees in all certification categories;
- opportunities for mentoring and professional development;
- local, regional, national, and international networking opportunities; and
- more: http://asprs.org/students/student-membership.html

In an effort to promote student membership in ASPRS, RGC will reimburse $20 of the regular ASPRS student membership dues of $50. In addition, the Rocky Mountain Region (RMR) of ASPRS, of which the RGC is a part, will reimburse an additional $25 of the regular ASPRS student membership dues. So, the NET COST for all the benefits of student membership in ASPRS is only $5!\(^1\)

Reimbursements from the RGC may be obtained by emailing the completed ASPRS-RGC Student Rebate Form to your ASPRS Student Chapter Faculty Advisor (if applicable) and/or ASPRS-RGC Treasurer Su Zhang (suzhang@unm.edu).

Reimbursements from the RMR may be obtained by following the instructions at http://www.asprs-rmr.org/student-rebate-offer/.

\(^1\) To be eligible for student membership in ASPRS and reimbursements of membership dues by the RGC and RMR, students must be working towards a degree at a university or college in New Mexico. Certification of student status (e.g., copies of student identification or current registration, faculty or sponsor signature, etc.) is required for each year of student membership. A person is not eligible for student membership if he/she has previously held an Active or Associate Member status. Student members do not vote or hold office until they advance to Associate Membership.
